Prospering in dentistry through personal choices

A two-day workshop sponsored by the Academy of General Dentistry Foundation

March 22-23, 1991
Radisson Cherry Hill Hotel
Cherry Hill, New Jersey

You've been out of dental school a few years, and you know that the technical aspects of dentistry are not the problems keeping you awake at night. Your problems are financial security, staff selection, and the financial aspects of a dental practice, including debts, overhead, and taxes.

Day One, March 22: You'll focus on personal values clarification and develop a personal plan for growth. Doug Young, MBA, will help you discover and expand your potential as a successful dentist.

Day Two, March 23: You'll develop a financial plan and establish fees. Dr. David Riddel, a young dentist and successful financial planner to a large healthcare clientele, will help you acquire insights into financial analysis and planning.

Tuition: $195 for AGD members ($145 one day fee); $225 for non-members ($165 one day fee); $115 for recent graduates or staff ($75 one day fee); $25/day for spouse accompanying dentist.
You'll get 16 hours of FAGD/MAGD credit for attending both days.

To register, simply return the registration form below with your check or credit card information, or call the AGD's continuing education department at (312) 440-4300. Make your check payable to: The Academy of General Dentistry Foundation.
